PREFACE

THE present volume contains a Catalogue of all the Books published by Macmillan and Co. from 1843 to 1889 inclusive. The system adopted has been to give the publications of each year in alphabetical order; no title appears more than once, as subsequent editions and reprints are noted under the original entry. The titles and collations have been taken from copies of the first edition of every book except in a few instances, in which the deviation from this rule has always been noted. A complete Index will be found at the end of the volume.

One of the first things to be settled when this Catalogue was undertaken was a definition of the word Edition, and after careful consideration the Publishers decided to describe as an Edition an impression from type set up afresh, either with or without alteration and read for press by a proof-reader. An impression from standing type or from Stereotype or Electrotype plates is described as a Reprint. The letter S or E implies that Stereotype or Electrotype plates were taken. M means that paper moulds were made from which, if required, Stereotype plates could afterwards be cast.

It need hardly be said that the number of Editions or Reprints of any given book is no accurate guide as to its sale. An Edition may consist of 250 or of 100,000 copies.

The first book bearing the name of Macmillan on its title-page is Craig's Philosophy of Training, published in 1843 by D. and A. Macmillan, 57 Aldersgate Street. In the summer of the same year, with the assistance of Archdeacon Hare,¹ Daniel Macmillan purchased Newby's business at 17 Trinity Street, Cambridge, intending to carry it on in conjunction with his younger brother Alexander, who was to remain in London. Before the end of the year, however, the Aldersgate Street shop was given up and both brothers settled in Cambridge, where, in 1845, they bought the business of Mr. Stevenson at 1 Trinity Street. In order to provide the capital necessary for this purchase a partner was taken in, and the firm became Macmillan, Barclay, and Macmillan until the retirement of Mr. Barclay in 1850, when it adopted the name of Macmillan and Co., which it has retained ever since.

In 1858—the year after Daniel Macmillan's death—a branch house was opened at 23 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, and in 1863 the headquarters of the firm were once more removed to London (16 Bedford Street, Covent Garden), the retail bookselling business remaining at Cambridge as an independent establishment, where it is still carried on under the name of Macmillan and Bowes. A further move was made in 1872 to the present offices (29 and 30 Bedford Street), and it may be noted that the three buildings in which the business has been carried on since 1858 are within forty yards of each other.

In 1863 Mr. Alexander Macmillan was appointed Publisher to the University of Oxford, a post which he held until October 1880, when the delegates of the University Press abandoned the system of employing a private publisher and took the management of their numerous publications into their own hands. When this change was made the University of Oxford expressed its appreciation of Mr. Macmillan's services by conferring on him the degree of Master of Arts honoris causa.

In the year 1869 Macmillan and Co. opened a branch house in New York under the management of Mr. George E. Brett, who conducted it until his death in 1890, when the firm of Macmillan and Co. of New York was constituted on an independent basis, consisting of the members of the London firm with Mr. George Platt Brett as resident American partner. Macmillan and Co. of New York, besides representing the English firm of Macmillan and Co., are the authorised American agents for the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, and importers of the publications of many English and Scotch houses.

The present members of the firm are : ALEXANDER MACMILLAN, GEORGE LILLIE CRAIK (admitted in 1865), FREDERICK MACMILLAN (1874), GEORGE AUGUSTIN MACMILLAN (1879), and MAURICE MACMILLAN (1883).

In conclusion the Publishers wish to express their obligations to their valued assistant Mr. JAMES FOSTER, who has undertaken the arduous labour of compiling the following Catalogue.

THE UNIVERSITIES AND THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND. By a Cambridge Man.

"Statutus est dies responsionis ad instans magnum Parliamentum, ut auditis partium rationibus pacificarentur. Eodemque die secretius dixit Frater, qui et hoc scripsit, domino Regi: 'Domine, pro Domino curam habe de Ecclesia jam vacillante. Universitas enim Parisiensis, tot altrix et magistra sanctorum prælatorum, non mediocriter perturbatur. Si similiter uno tempore perturbetur Oxoniensis Universitas, cum sit schola secunda Ecclesiæ, imo Ecclesiæ fundamentum, timendum est vehementer, ne Ecclesia tota ruinam patiatur.' Et rex: 'Absit quod hoc contingat, maxime meo tempore.'" Matthew Paris, A.D. 1257 (p. 811, ed. 1684).

THE SCOURING OF THE WHITE HORSE; or, the Long Vacation Ramble of a London Clerk. By the author of "Tom Brown's School Days."

OLD AND NEW.

See how the Autumn leaves float by, decaying,

Down the red whirls of yon rain-swollen stream;

So fleet the works of men, back to their earth again;

Ancient and holy things fade like a dream.

Nay! see the Spring blossoms steal forth a-maying,

Clothing with tender buds orchard and glen;

So, though old forms go by, ne'er can their spirit die,

Look! England's bare boughs show green leaf again.—KINGSLEY.

SUFFIELD (G.) SYNTHETIC DIVISION IN ARITHMETIC, with some introductory remarks on the period of circulating decimals. By GEORGE SUFFIELD, M.A., Clare College, Cambridge.

"Nor need it by any means be presumed that because a book is wholly unknown, it proves nothing in the history of science. A book so thoroughly lost as that of Witt, contains a nearer approach to the decimal point than was made by Napier. Horner found a close approximation to his own method for the case of cube root, in an obscure compendium of Arithmetic." De Morgan, Arithmetical Books.

- BIRKBECK (W. LL.) A LETTER TO VISCOUNT PALMERSTON, K.G. M.P. on the Present Condition of Poland, founded partly on personal observation. By W. LL. BIRKBECK, Esq.
Those who live under a tyranny, and have learnt to admire its power as sacred and divine, are debauched as much in their religion as in their morals. Public good, according to their apprehension, is as little the measure or rule of government in the universe as in the state. They have scarce a notion of what is good or just other than as mere will and power have determined. Shaftesbury.

THORNTON (W. T.) ON LABOUR its wrongful claims and rightful dues its actual present and possible future By WILLIAM THOMAS THORNTON author of 'A Plea for Peasant Proprietors' etc.

'La grandeur du problème ne nous doit point accabler. Seulement il convient de l'aborder avec frayeur et modestie. Le résoudre, personne en particulier ne le pourrait; en combinant leurs efforts, tous le peuvent. Dans l'œuvre du progrès universel, que sont, considérés l'un après l'autre, les meilleurs ouvriers? Et néanmoins l'ouvrage avance, la besogne du genre humain va s'accomplissant d'une manière irrésistible, et chaque homme qui étudie travaille, même en se trompant, à l'œuvre de la vérité' Louis Blanc, Organisation du Travail

- FREEMAN (E. A.) HISTORICAL ESSAYS. By EDWARD A. FREEMAN, M.A., D.C.L., Late Fellow of Trinity College, Oxford. Second Series.
'I will at least hope that these volumes may encourage a spirit of research into history, and may in some measure assist in directing it ; that they may contribute to the conviction that history is to be studied as a whole, and according to its philosophical divisions, not such as merely geographical and chronological; that the history of Greece and Rome is not an idle inquiry about remote ages and forgotten institutions, but a living picture of things present, fitted not so much for the curiosity of the scholar, as the instruction of the statesman and the citizen'.—Arnold, Preface to Thucydides, Vol. iii.

"I admit that where Law and Equity differ, the principles on which justice is administered in Equity are more consonant to rational justice than those of the Common Law, and consequently that the Law ought to be adapted to the standard of Equity. . . . I am not sorry to have an opportunity of, as it were, placing on record my reasons for thinking that the fusion of Law and Equity is a consummation devoutly to be wished; and, further, that it must take place at the expense of the Law."—THE LORD CHIEF JUSTICE COCKBURN.

CROSSKEY (H. W.) THE LIBERAL ASSOCIATION—THE "600"—OF BIRMINGHAM. By HENRY W. CROSSKEY.

MR. GLADSTONE ON THE BIRMINGHAM LIBERAL ASSOCIATION,
SEPT. 27, 1877.

"Gentlemen, let me recommend to you, as you are now giving a lesson to the country in a most important particular, not to be ashamed to take a lesson from another place, but turn your eyes towards our friends in Birmingham. You remember how Manchester led the way in the repeal of the Corn Laws; you remember how Birmingham led the way in the matter of the Reform Act. Birmingham has been setting its brain to work upon the important matter of the organisation of the party. Gentlemen, that is our weak point. If we had been organised five years ago the course of the history of the last four or five years would have been a very different course. Now at Birmingham an organisation has been adopted which I venture to say is admirable. It is sound, it is just, it is liberal, it is popular. The Liberal organisation is accompanied by no test. There is no test of money subscription; because it is perfectly well known that there are many men—good, true, useful men—who can subscribe time and thought and heart and purpose, but who cannot subscribe money. They do not shut them out. Neither is there any test of opinion. A man is not bound by the Birmingham plan to subscribe to any list of political articles. That has been one of the rocks upon which we have split. At Birmingham you know they are tolerably advanced men in their opinions—but they do not attempt to exclude the man who is moderate. What they do is, they invite every man who honestly believes himself a Liberal to take part in the organisation."

OLIPHANT (M. O. W.) HESTER a Story of Contemporary Life by Mrs. OLIPHANT

“ A springy motion in her gait,
 A rising step, did indicate
 Of pride and joy no common rate
 That flush'd her spirit :
 I know not by what name beside
 I shall it call : if 'twas not pride
 It was a joy to that allied
 She did inherit
 * * * * *
 She was trained in Nature's school
 Nature had blest her
 A waking eye, a prying mind
 A heart that stirs, is hard to bind
 A hawk's keen sight ye cannot blind
 Ye could not Hester.”

GILMAN (N. P.) PROFIT SHARING BETWEEN EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE A Study in the Evolution of the Wages System By NICHOLAS

PAINÉ GILMAN

The present doctrine is that the workman's interests are linked to those of other workmen, and the employer's to those of other employers. Eventually it will be seen that industrial divisions should be perpendicular, not horizontal. The workman's interests should be bound up with those of his employer, and should be pitted in fair competition against those of other workmen and employers.—W. Stanley Jevons.
